January 2, 2009

I think that the thing I miss most is the sunlight and sunshine of the days that are sunny and bright. It seems that the days are getting longer and the sun is shining more. I feel happy that the weather is starting to improve.

In my dream, I am walking down a path with flowers on both sides. The path is long and winding, and it leads to a beautiful garden. I feel peaceful and content as I walk along the path.

The Secret in the Old Attic

She entered the attic and found a box full of old letters and photographs. As she sorted through the papers, she came across a letter from her childhood friend. She remembered how they used to play hide-and-seek in the attic, and she smiled as she unfolded the letter.
